Petitions asking the Board of Supervisors to appoint another highway commission are in circulation.
Such was the order given Monday afternoon by the advisory committee, made up of the well-known citizens of San Bernardino County, whose names are given above as its members.

Practically every section of the County is represented in its membership, and almost every member of the committee was present and action ordering petitions into circulation was unanimous except for one vote.

One of the very first developments was the announcement that the city government of San Bernardino had declined to make an appointment to serve on the committee. This was evidenced by a formal communication from Mayor J. W.
Catick, saying that he would make no appointment "at this time," while A. M. Ham, member of the committee as the selection of the San Bernardino Chamber of Commerce, stated that he had talked with Mr. Catick and urged him to make an appointment, but that he had declined to do so. Mr. Ham, therefore, moved that the committee fill the vacancy by making an appointment representative of the city of San Bernardino. After some discussion this was agreed to and Mr. Ham asked to make a nomination. He offered the name of J. J.
Hanford, who was once and unanimously confirmed by the committee.

As a matter of fact, the amazingly stupid attitude of the Mayor has disgusted even the friends he had left. Ever since it was whispered about last week that he was going to buck the appointment of a representative, men who were supposed to have influence with him have urged that the city of San Bernardino, of all others, could not afford to take such a step as to refuse to recognize this committee. But they might as well have saved their breath. What cared he for the city or its representation?

As the net result of the afternoon's discussion, a committee was named, consisting of W. M. Bristol,
F. H. Owen, M. F. Palmer, George
V. Holcomb and Isaac Jones, instructed to immediately put petitions in the field, asking for the appointment of a highway commission.
This committee later conferred with District Attorney Goodell, and the latter and Judge Oster, as chairman of the advisory committee, will go over the form of the petition and see that it is water-tight, and they will forthwith be sent out for signature.

Something like 900 signatures are required, and signs to be effective must have three qualifications: They must be freeholders, they must be electors, and they must have registered since January 1, 1914.

Want Engineers to Report
Redlands delegates insisted that a necessary preliminary is the appointment of an engineering commission to informally go over the roads laid out as the basis of the recent bond election, this contention being maintained by Lyman M. King, and supported by Judge B. F. Bledsoe. While there was no manifest hostility to the plan in itself,
the fact that it would involve delay,
and that it could have no binding or legal force, called for very considerable opposition, and from the way in

Mrs. Robinson Asks Important Question

Mr. and Mrs. Robinson, who are each night thrilling the people of Upland, at the union free lecture
course, given at the Presbyterian Church, are full of sound theory and eloquent descriptions.

They are engaged for the coming year as Chautauque lecturers, but their hearts are so full of messages to the people they feel that they must be continually in the work.
We give below a few expressions
from Mrs. Robinson:

There are many local questions of great importance before the various towns and cities of Southern California. The burning question of the moment before the people of Los Angeles is not the L. W. W. encampment there, but the boring of the tunnels to relieve the great traffic congestion of the present and the still greater congestion of the near future.

A question of great importance to the people of Upland was discussed at the mass meeting held in the Grammar School last Tuesday evening, when plans were devised for the drainage of storm water so that such damage as that wrought
by recent rains would be impossible in the future. It argues well for any community whose city fathers are enlightened enough to safeguard the welfare of the future by protecting the interests of the present.

Such questions may be local, but indirectly they affect every section of the State, for on the prosperity of the part is the prosperity of the whole, more or less dependent.

How much more interested, then,
should every section of this great Commonwealth be in that most important of all questions before the people of California today, the answer to which will directly affect every man, woman and child favorably or unfavorably, namely, "A Wet or Dry California?"

It really seems unnecessary
this enlightened day to argue in favor of the prohibition of the liquor traffic, for even the devotees of Bacchus admit that they would be better men and women without the liquor, and even a casual observer can understand the saving it would be to the State in life and money were the liquor business banished from the State. There is no doubt that the sentiment in all classes of society against this evil,
and the emphasis must be laid on the harnessing of this sentiment,
for the ballot box next fall.

The air is charged with the get-together idea; for all kinds of enterprises. At Niland, the new town in Imperial Valley, the recently had a get-together, inter-city day, and thousands from all parts, representing every business, many religious,
a diversity of opinion on many questions, gathered there and celebrated,
for they were all united on one theme, and that was boosting for Imperial Valley.

Why cannot all Californians who are agreed on this one thing get together and boost for a dry California?

If, irrespective of politics,
church relations, and any and every question the voters would thus do the minutes and days of the liquor traffic in this State would be numbered.

Mrs. Robinson, a native of Australia, "the traveler and the talker," has been four times around the world, and has been the intensely attention for the uplift of humanity. Mr.
Robinson, of British America, the scholar and author, is giving a new message, highly sanctioned by the best scholars, for the conservation and development of the rising generation.

RUMOR PLACES THE POSTOFFICE SITE

Inspector Lowe Investigates the Proposed Sites for Postoffice but Does Not Give out Official Information. Rumor Locates it

Inspector Lowe was in town last Thursday and although he gave out no information, rumor has it that the location of the office will be at the corner of Ninth Street and Third Avenue, or adjoining the ad-
be at the corner of Ninth Street and Church. This bid was put in by James Sourwine and if he lands the postoffice, will build three storerooms there, and one of them will doubtless be occupied by the Johnson & Brown grocery store. There is nothing official in this announcement as to where the postoffice is to be, as Inspector Lowe's recommendation must first go to Washington, and it will be about thirty days before word will be received from it.

NEW PACKING HOUSE IS READY FOR ACTIVE USE

The new packing house of the Corona Orange Growers Association is now ready for use. The old building was burned January 3.

SUIT OVER PACIFIC ELECTRIC RIGHT-OF- WAY TO BE TRIED

Five Thousand Dollars was Not Enough Money

Suit of Mrs. Harriet Longstreet Gray Against the Pacific Elec- tric is to be Retried. Judge Finlayson so Orders.

"I was shocked at the size of the verdict," announced Judge Finlay-son of Los Angeles in San Bernardino Monday, in granting a new trial to Mrs. Harriet Longstreet Gray of Upland in the suit of the Pacific Electric to condemn a right-of-way through the Gray estate at Red Hill just east of Upland.

A jury twelve months ago, after a trial of many days, gave Mrs.
Gray $5,000. She demanded $100, 000.

Mrs. Gray introduced several arguments for a new trial, including the declaration the evidence justified
a greater verdict. Judge Finlayson denied each point, except that on the question of the size of the verdict.

Attorney Edwin Meserve of Los Angeles and Charles L. Allison of Allison & Dickson represented Mrs.
Gray. Attorney Cary appeared for the Pacific Electric to resist the motion for a new trial.

May Go to High Court
It is probable the Pacific Electric will appeal to the Supreme Court
the order granting a new trial.

The attorneys for Mrs. Gray raised an interesting question, having to do with the old jury system in vogue here for years. Shortly after the trial the jury system was changed to the present arrangement, term verdicts made up from the annual jury list. Formerly special ve-dicts were secured for each trial.
This was declared contrary to law.

In his argument Attorney Meserve pointed out that in some manner
the Pacific Electric, and no veniman from Highland, Redlands or other communities which had no interest in how much a right of way
cost the Pacific Electric. Judge Finlayson rejected this point.

ONCE RECALLED—THEN ELECTED BY MAJORITY

Some years ago Hiram Gill was Mayor of Seattle. He was accused of favoring a "wide open" town and of neglecting to enforce the laws.
The State of Washington possesses the recall, and it was invoked against Hiram Gill. By a considerable majority he was removed from office.

At a recent primary in Seattle Hiram Gill led all competitors, and he is likely to be elected Mayor.

The question is as to whether Hiram Gill has changed or the people of Seattle have changed. The former is not unlikely. There has probably been a shift of sentiment in favor of the things which Hiram Gill stand for.

The recall does not seem to have been very useful. It appears to have beckoned Hiram Gill not to permanent retirement but only to a brief vacation.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

NEW ADDITION TO GARAGE COMPLETE

Tenth Street Garage Addition is Now Complete. New Machines And Many Conveniences to be Added to Interior.

The addition to the Tenth Street
Garage is completed and from now on B. J. Caldwell, proprietor, will have less trouble endeavoring to house the many machines that enter his garage.

For many months the Tenth Street Garage has been short of room and employees of the institution were constantly hindered because of the crowded condition. Recently Mr. Caldwell persuaded Frank Strohm, who owns the building, to build an addition and plans were under way when Mr. Strohm received word from his Eastern business interests which came near stopping the proposed improvement. He talked the matter over with Mr.
Caldwell and finally decided that the addition must be built, and a few weeks ago the contract was let to J. H. Byer, who put in the cement work, and to H. J. Donner, who had the carpenter's contract.

Today the building is practically completed, although there is still much to be added to the interior.
The building of the addition necessitated an entire change on the inside and when the work is complete the garage will be one of the most up-to-date in this section.
There will be every convenience for motorists, while a waiting room and toilet for ladies will be one of the many innovations.

In the mechanical department several new machines are to be added,
all of which will give to the customer better and quicker service.
A new gasoline pump, a new machine to provide air for tires, as well as many new machines for the repair department, are to be installed, and when the installing is all complete Mr. Caldwell hopes to have an ideal garage not only for the convenience of himself and employees but for the customers as well.

COULDN'T TAKE FOR MORE BUSINESS

Climate of Upland Against Him Says Local Undertaker in Di- vorce Hearing, when Judge Inquires as to Business.

Twenty-five dollars a month is the amount of alimony allowed Mrs. J.
H. Flinn until the trial of divorce on a cruelty charge against her husband, J. H. Flinn.

The hearing was before Judge
Bledsoe at San Bernardino on Monday and although Mrs. Flinn asked for $500 per month, owing to the fact that Flinn stated that business was a little slow, the Judge fixed the alimony at $25.

Mr. Flinn is in the undertaking business here and when the Judge asked him if business was likely to pick up, he replied, "No, I think it is more likely to fall off," which caused a ripple of laughter to float
through the court room.

The divorce trial will be held in April, it is thought, although the exact date has not been set as yet.

BUILT A HOUSE AND NOW ARE SUBJECT TO PROSECUTION

Almost Like the Man who Built on the Sand

Pool Room Licenses are Given to Four Pool Rooms and City Councilmen Warn Owners that They Must Observe the Law.

Some twenty-five members of the Methodist Episcopal Church are subject to arrest today all because they built a house.

It seems that for several months
the Methodist Episcopal Church has been short of room, and on Sunday
it was decided to build a bungalow
at the rear of the church to hold one of the classes. Members of the church were requested to be on the grounds early Tuesday morning and when the time came they were all there. Some of them didn't know a square from a level, although most of them knew that in order to be sure you had to be "on the level";
so they were all there as carpenters.
A load of lumber drove up in front
soon after the arrival of the men and by nightfall those men had a house nearly done, and on Wednesday were completing it when someone asked if they had gotten a permit from the city to build such a house. If there is a single sentence in the city ordinance which this house observes, Building Inspector Manker says he is unable to find it and the trustees of the Methodist Church are to be requested to appear before the Council at the next meeting.

A Hoodoo
The particular spot in town seems to be a sort of hoodoo to the City Council, for time after time a cow burn right next to this Sunday School room has been brought to their attention through the owners that ascend heavenward—except during a fog caused by the filthy coals of said barn. Health officials have endeavored to remedy
the situation by removing the cow and burning the barn.

Pool Room License Granted
Four pool room licenses were granted last night to pool room owners with Council Grier, Haury and Lambrieger voting "yes" and Coun-cillman Mehl voting "no." Woodbridge absent, the men receiving the licenses being W. F. Stewart, W. B.
Duncan, C. T. Miller and White & Spera. As soon as the licenses were granted Councilman Grier stated that the one reason he desired the owners of the pool rooms present when the licenses were granted was that he might tell them his position on the matter.

"I stand for well-conducted, well-regulated pool rooms," said Mr.
Grier, "and as long as you men conduct your business as it should be conducted just so long will you have your license; but if any drinking, gambling, or disorderly conduct goes on in your place you can depend on it that I shall vote to have your license revoked."

Councilman Mehl next spoke,
stating that he believed a pool room was not a good thing, and although he had not one thing against any of the owners of the pool rooms, he would vote against them.

Battle of the Clouds Big Drawing Card

Many Upland people are planning on attending the "Battle of the Clouds" celebration at Pomona tomorrow and Saturday, April 3 and 4, which will be staged on the site of Pomona's new speedway.

Some idea of the wonders which await the thousands expected to attend can be gained from a glance at the program below. Ground breaking for the speedway, aerial parades, aerial races, attempts at altitude records, maneuvering of Company B, the battle in the clouds, and many others are some of the thrilling features which will be seen.

The program contains the first announcement of the world's first demonstration of wireless telephoning from the air. An army scout machine will be used in this demonstration. There are distinct features for each day of the program.
An attendance of 20,000 people is

PIONEER OF COLONY PASSES TO BEYOND

Pioneer of Model Colony Passes. Man Who Planted Euclid Ave- nue Groves was of Sturdy Stock. A Bit of History.

In the early days of the Ontario
Colony and when Chaffey Bros. first commenced their work of laying out the Model Colony of which Upland today forms the greater part, there was in the employ of these men a man named Andrew Rubio, whom the older residents of the city of Upland will well remember.

At his home in Los Angeles last Sunday Mr. Rubio passed to the great beyond, and although many of those who own ranches along Euclid Avenue may not be aware of it, Mr. Rubio was the man who planted a large majority of the groves which today are yielding many dollars for their owners.

As a pioneer, Mr. Rubio was built of that fighting and winning disposition, and although the odds were often against him and many times defeat stared him in the face,
he stayed steadfastly by the work laid out for him and after many years of hard work he saw the Model Colony blossom as does the rose.

Mr. Rubio came to Etiwanda in 1881, and from there came to this colony and at different times during his residence here he owned ranches
on Fourteenth Street and West Eighteenth Street, while his last holdings consisted of some forty acres on Sixteenth Street and north of Red Hill.

The first native son of Upland,
which at that time was not thought of, was Joe Rubio, at the present time employed in the Crescon Gar-rage on Euclid Avenue, and although many people know him they do not know that he was the first-born in the newly laid out Model Colony.

Some eight years ago the Rubio family removed to Los Angeles and although Mr. Rubio often made trips to Upland to visit with former few of the inhabitants of the city at this time knew him.

MASS MEETING HAS MANY INTERESTING TOPICS BEFORE IT

Meeting Favors the Road Bonds—Providing--

Mass Meeting of Upland Citi- zens Discuss Storm Water Pro- tection. Surrounding Towns May Join in Forming District.

Men of affairs gathered at the school house auditorium last Tuesday night to hear the report of the committee recently appointed to investigate storm water conditions here and to make suggestions as to how to remedy the washing of waters in case of heavy rains. The report which was printed in last week's News was read by Earl V.
Paul, president of the Chamber of Commerce, as W. J. Stowe, secretary of the committee, was unable to be present, owing to a severe cold.

Following the report City Attorney Garrett was asked to explain the law on the forming of storm drain districts which he did in a most satisfactory manner, and following Mr.
Garrett John Kusanman of Cucamonga told of the experience of the people of Cucamonga with flood control and storm district work. Mr. Kus-man stated they are trying to form
one new large storm district, including old Hellman Avenue district, and extending east to Etiwanda. Mr.
Kusanman advocated the 1907 law rather than the 1909 law (even tax rather than tax proportionate to benefit). He said Cucamonga must act. The damage is so great they are forced to do so. They hoped for a big new district to extend west to Upland lake and south, including Salt Lake railroad.

Mr. Garrett was again called on to explain the 1907 vs. the 1909 storm district laws. The 1909 act provides for the taxing of the railroads
according to the benefit derived.
Also County highways according to their benefit. Mr. Garrett emphasized the fact that the 1907 law might be authorized by one district
on account of storm drain
diversion made by another.
The formation of one big district would avoid this and would cheapen
the cost of all by dividing the expense of overhead cost.

President Paul spoke in favor of the single district. He stated that it would cheapen the cost by lessening
the number of trustees required and by simplifying the engineering work, pointing out that eighteen commissioners would be required,
each of whom would have to give bonds, if the plans embodying the six small districts were carried out.
Under one district three commissioners would be all that would be required.

Mr. McCrea spoke from the Ontario standpoint. He said that by the discussion he had heard, and from the outline of the proposed storm drains, intended to be constructed by Upland, he thought Ontario would be forced to come in from self-protection, if for nothing else. Aside from this, insofar as he had been able to sound public opinion there, he thought that Ontario would be glad to cooperate in storm-water control.

Mr. Will Beattie introduced the formal resolution, as follows:
Resolved, That the report of the committee on protection from storm water be placed on file and that a vote of thanks be tendered said committee for its thorough and painstaking investigation of the problem involved.

Resolved, further, That it is the sense of this meeting after a full discussion of the said report and the legislation bearing upon the matter of protection from storm water,
that there is imperative necessity for prompt action to organize a protection district, and that to this end a committee be appointed by the chairman to confer at an early date with similar committees from Ontario, Claremont and Cucamonga, or other contiguous communities, to secure if possible cooperation on the part of these several communities in the matter of solving the problem
of protection from storm waters,
either through the organization of one protection district to include these several communities or separate districts yet cooperating in one general plan to secure the best results to all concerned. Said committee to report at a future meeting to be held on call of the chairman.

This was seconded by Councilman Woodbridge.
Mayor Lambrieger spoke for the united district. Mr. Price seconded
Mr. Lambrieger's remarks, and added a suggestion that Chino might possibly be counted in. Mr. Price emphasized the need of a big, strong district to handle the large problems of storm-water control in the Cucamonga and San Antonio Wash.
In a general discussion which followed, the following were present:

CONFIDENCE

A bank, particularly, is dependent on confidence, which is attained only by right dealing. If we have your confidence, our bank is invincible, if ordinary common sense be employed in its management. This bank has tried earnestly to work for the best interest of its cus-

enemy must admit it has done a good work in the

THURSDAY, APRIL 2, 1914

FRIDAY is the day for the selection of a school trustee and clerk of the board, and all over the city there comes a demand that Mrs. F. H. Manker retain the position. Mrs. Manker has been a most efficient member of the board, taking an interest in the successful conduct of the schools, and as one good term deserves another, indications are that there will be no opposition to her candidacy.

THE SCRAP is on, and it didn't take San Bernardino and the little town of Highland long to start it. A campaign is now on foot to again bring the road bond issue before the people, and the above-named cities have adopted a resolution through their Chamber of Commerce bodies endorsing the former Commissioners, as well as the system of roads which the former board drew up. Hence, and therefore, the scrap is on, for not for one minute will Redlands stand for that system of roads, for if that fair city doesn't get what she wants she gets peeved, takes her blocks and goes right home. The west-end wants good roads, thanks to Chino's vote, and as soon as San Bernardino and Redlands get their differences adjusted, let us go on with the campaign and join the Counties that have roads which are a credit to their people.

SQUIRE HOMAN, JUSTICE OF THE PEACE, has again been shocked, for in his last issue of the Chino Champion he states, "It is said ladies' fashions always go to extremes and facts seem to bear out this idea. Last year the skirts had long slits from the hem up and this year the slit is from the neck down. In either event the 'see-more' effect" is quite pronounced." It certainly does seem that a lot of people are very hard to please. Not many months since Judge Homan went to Los Angeles to the fashion show, and upon his return wrote a long editorial stating that, contrary to reports, the fashion show wasn't worth seeing. But the most cruel blow of all is that the Judge calls the modern dress "see-more," which term has long since gone out of use, the modern term being "low, and behold."

WITH the mention in last week's issue of this publication of Ralph Swing as a candidate for State Senator from this district, which includes San Bernardino and Inyo Counties, many newspapers are commenting on the suggestion, and believe there is not a more capable man than Mr. Swing for the position. Redlands has had the Senatorial position for several years, and it is said that Lyman M. King, editor of the Redlands Facts, desires the Senatorial honors for this section. King is the only man who managed to hold on to a State job both under the Southern Pacific machine and that of Hiram Johnson, and when a man can do that he surely has some quality that must be admitted by a Progressive no one knows. He is a Republican he certainly has "leanings" Progressively, and on what ticket he will run will have to be announced by himself.

THE SCRAP is on and the main thing considered by both Democrats and Progressives is how to defeat C. D. Van Wie for Supervisor from this district. Last week Jeff Kincaid, the strongest candidate the Democrats could have selected, announced his candidacy and that fact combined with the lack of registration of the Progressive element has thrown the Progressive strength to Kincaid, with the result that the Progressives will not have a man in the field. It was thought at first that H. D. Blakeslee might be backed by Progressives, but "nay, nay, Pauline," say they, and it now looks as though about the only votes Blakeslee would get in the coming campaign will be prohibition votes, and many Prohibitionists, especially the prominent ones, are not at all enthusiastic over his candidacy. How to defeat Van Wie, recognized as the strongest candidate that can be put in the field, is the all-important question, and that Progressives are going to vote for Kincaid seems to be the dope-sheet passed to what few Progressives can be found in the Second district. This assures the nomination of both Van Wie and Kincaid at the primaries and in the grand race at the election it will be a race to the finish, with these men running a mighty close heat.

IN another column of this issue will be found a resolution passed at a meeting at the schoolhouse last Friday night when the teachers of the Upland Grammar School invited parents to visit an exhibition of work done by the pupils. And in this connection we feel called upon to ask: Why is it that parents don't visit the school? In the exhibition of last Friday night could be found more enlightenment on what the school really accomplishes for the children than in many months of visiting school in regular hours or through inquiry and investigation. True, there were many parents there, but not enough to make the showing that should be made. Education of the younger generation is the building of a firm foundation for the coming government of the nation; yet very few seem interested in this sort of thing. In these modern days teachers not only endeavor to get valuable learning into a child's head, but teach them how to use their hands as well. Many a man cannot drive a nail without pounding his fingers, while many wives are unable to sew a button on their husband's trousers that will assure said trousers remaining intact for any definite period. The Upland Grammar School teaches its pupils to sew, and take the little folks of the sixth grade who can make dresses or build a tool box such as was on exhibition at the schoolhouse the other evening, and they are a credit to both parents and instructors. Each and everyone should take more interest in the schooling of the children and instead of picking flaws in the methods practiced, endeavor to investigate and see for themselves the far-reaching effect of the educational system of the present day and age.

IT IS INDEED HARD to imagine that in this day there are men and women so short-sighted as to believe that conditions are far more advantageous in a town without a business head than in one manned by a competent board of business men. Over in the bustling, hustling town of Rialto there are a lot of good, whole-souled, prosperous people, but unfortunately, there are a few there who believe that an incorporated town is actually a disadvantage; who believe that incorporation is not worth the cost. Several years ago Upland became an incorporated

RESOLUTIONS ADOPTED AT PUBLIC MEETING HELD AT THE UPLAND GRAMMAR SCHOOL, FRIDAY, MARCH 27, 1914

Resolved, that as citizens of Upland, assembled at this public exhibition of the work done by the pupils of our Grammar Schools, we do hereby express our sincere pride and gratification at the results achieved by the present school administration. That we fully recognize that these marvelous results could not be accomplished save through the high-grade efficiency and fidelity to duty of the Principal and teachers in charge of our schools and we, therefore, take this occasion to express to the Principal and teachers and school officials of the Upland schools our grateful thanks and sincere appreciation for the great progress made and for the splendid spirit and harmony that have prevailed in all departments of the Upland schools. Be it further

Resolved, that a copy of this resolution be delivered to the Clerk of the School Board to be spread upon the minutes and that a copy also be published in The Upland News.

city and since that time we have failed to meet a single man who would like to go back to those former days when Upland dragged along on a subscription paper sort of existence. That Upland and her citizens have prospered is only too apparent, and we need not point out to Rialto our many advantages since that time; but the idea of a community like Rialto actually retrograding into oblivion because of a few disgruntled, narrow-minded men, who don't even realize the sun shines now and then—men who actually believe that when they die they will cross the great divide with all the money they made on this earth in their pockets—men who never could see any reason in that old maxim, "as we journey through life let us live by the way." We cannot believe for one instant that Rialto is made up of men and women of this sort, but rather that a few of a decidedly narrow type have the broader people thinking the wrong way, and we hope that when that election comes along disincorporation, which is one of the worst words in the dictionary, will be snowed under so far that Rialto will be the last town in all this Southern California to ever bring up the subject.

THE PANAMA CANAL AND PACIFIC COAST PORTS

No Other Ports of the United States will Benefit by Canal Opening Like Those of the Pacific Coast.

Forbes Lindsay, the well-known traveler and lecturer, contributes an interesting paper entitled "The Panama Canal and the Pacific Coast Ports" to Lippincott's.

"No other ports of the United States will benefit so greatly by the opening of the Panama Canal as will the Pacific Coast region," he tells us. "A vast amount of produce which now moves to its market in an easterly direction will take the water route from coast to coast when that shall have become available. Great quantities of foodstuffs that could not stand the expense of far western shipping, will be able to reach the coast by the Panama Canal. The cost of sending a ton of merchandise from San Francisco to New York by water will be little more than one-fourth of the present rate for transportation between these points. There will be little, if any, loss of time. Fast freight trains occupy fourteen or fifteen days in crossing the continent. Eighteen-knot vessels will complete the circuit in the same time. It is easy to believe that, with the extension of turbine engines and the introduction of oil-burning furnaces, such a rate of speed will be commonly maintained by merchant ships.

"The Panama Canal will revolutionize the internal trade of the United States and greatly expand its foreign commerce. The Pacific Coast ports realize that they must be important factors in this development, and they are one and all preparing to play an effective part in the prospective era of maritime activity. Before the beginning of 1915, upward of one hundred millions of dollars will be spent in improving the facilities of the harbors and ports of our Pacific seaboard for the accommodation of ocean-going vessels. It is a noteworthy fact that almost all these improvements are being carried out at the public expense and under the direction of State and city officials. All along

HOW CAN A YOUNG MAN BECOME A REAL FARMER

Workable Method of Financing Farm Industry One of the Greatest of Hindrances to the Present Day Farmer.

Some time ago Dr. Hunt, dean of the California College of Agriculture, gave an address on the subject of "How can a young man become a farmer?" Among other things discussed was that of farm credit. The speaker declared that every generation is going to find more difficult to till the soil properly unless some workable method of financing the land can be found. He said: "What is wanted is some method by which young men who wish to become farmers may offer evidence of ability, thrift and character. There is wanted some guarantee that the money will be used for productive purposes. To determine that the money will be wisely expended. What is needed is some basis on which educated, hard-working, honest young men between the ages of twenty-one and thirty may obtain a reasonable capital with which to make a home in the open country." To obtain this credit Dr. Hunt suggested that if a young man could pass an examination in agriculture, could present evidence of practical farm experience, had actually earned and saved a given amount of money and had a reputation for honesty and good habits, the State should lend him money on terms similar to those on which the State now keeps money on deposit in banks, or the United States should loan its postal deposits on terms similar to those on which it now loans it to savings banks. We believe this plan is worthy of consideration by those who have the matter of farm credit in hand.

the coast contests have been waged for years between municipalities and commercial corporations for the control of water fronts and docking facilities. Without an important exception, the people have won in these fights to secure possession of properties which are vital factors in the prosperity of this region."

PEACH BLOSSOM TIME

Peach blossom time! And laden trees,
And fleecy clouds and honey bees;
Roads reaching to the distance dim;
And boys, impatient for a swim,
Stooping on footing insecure
To reach and try the temperature
Of wimpling lake or creek or pond;
And over all, and far beyond,
Small fleecy clouds and cobalt sky;
And little winds that whisper by.

Birds that wing upward out of sight
And, bathing in the morn's first light,
Shake the nights' dew from each glad wing
And swell their little throats and sing
Songs that drip back to me and you
As sweet and clear as honey dew;
Till we stand, faces raised, and eyes
That search the blue depths of the skies
And wonder what the wild bird sees
To wake him to such ecstasies.

And noon sunbeams like yellow gold,
And green shoots parting garden mold,
And children's faces scrubbed and clean;
Old men and women, cheeks aglow
With thoughts on a far long ago;
And dreaming that peach blossoms swing,
And that the wild birds mount and sing
As wild birds sang and blossoms swung
In the far days when they were young.

Peach blossom time! And mornings cool
As mornings when they went to school
With childhood's chums, and paused to look
From the low bridge into the stream
To watch the minnows dart and gleam.
Then turn and rush to school pell-mell
At the first ringing of the bell Peach blossom time! Glad season when Old earth renews her youth again.

LOST ROSES
I cannot smell your roses when I'm dead,
Nor see their petaled depths that hold the dew;
Though banded in masses all about my head,
No sense of mine can unto them pierce through.

To me they must be as if they were not;
Their all-transcending loveliness be lost.
Why bring them when I cannot know them? What Shall call your conscience of the wasteful cost?

My catalogue be draped in somber black,
With tapered tapers at the feet and head;
For so our fathers through the ages back
Deemed fitting when they prayed beside their dead.
—James C. Nolan.

MERCHANT'S BURDEN

Take up the Merchant's burden,
Go pay him as agreed.
He stood your friend in trouble,
Served you in time of need;
And now to wait forever
On unpaid bills high piled,
Of never-pay-up peoples
Will serve his wife and child.

Take up the Merchant's burden,
His patience has been great,
But he, too, needs some money.
A check would be first rate.
Do not by sullen silence
Allow his hopes to wane—
To steal another's profit
For your unlawful gain.

Take up the Merchant's burden—
Remember how he came,
And filled your wants on credit.
To cheat him is your shame.
Now, when you are obtaining
The funds for which you sought,
Forget not what you promised—
Go, pay him for what you bought.

Take up the Merchant's burden—
It's time that he was paid:
Nor blame him if he asks you
To keep the promise made.
Don't get in crusty humor
When he requests a lift,
But calmly then remember
You're not so very swift.

Take up the Merchant's burden—
You need not try again
To call aloud for credit
From other business men;
For you will find they do not Care whether you exist—
As long as you are on
The National Rating League list.

Take up the Merchant's burden—
If you are an honest man
No objections you will have
To the League's "Red Guide" plan.
You make your rating here
As merchants do in Dun,
So it is up to you, kind sir,
To settle up the sum.

Take up the Merchant's burden—
For no matter where you move
You will find "There's a Rating"
The merchants all approve.
So, why not settle now
And live within your means?
It gives you a smiling face
And stops those awful dreams.

Two employees were discussing what they would buy the boss, whose birthday was approaching. Said Mr. Higgins with enthusiasm: "Wiggins, old boy, we have raised $50, and we want something that will make a show for the money. Something that will look big, you know. Can't you suggest something?" "Sure," replied Mr. Wiggins; "buy $50 worth of rice and boil it."

RIGHTS OF PROPERTY IS AN ALL-IMPORTANT ISSUE

Revolutionary Change Sure to Regulate Property Holdings to The Good of The Entire Population of The Country.

Not even religious instinct is more thoroughly ingrained in human nature than respect for "the rights of property." And with that respect goes the desire to own and possess property. The theoretical socialist is as jealous of his bank account, his city lot, his cow or his chickens as the plutocrat is of his bonds. The lesser relative value of the latter's property does not lessen his satisfaction that the property is his—solely.

Since men began to acquire "property," its definitions have been subject to much change, but, always, there has been an instinctive desire to possess something—something exclusively their own. Except in times of violence, the title to the possession of property has been respected in every grade of society, from the most advanced civilization down to the savage. The savage who owns a dozen women and the Wall Street man who owns half a dozen railroads, feel the same proprietary satisfaction in their property. One looks to his tribal regulations to protect his property, and the other to government to render protective service.

Heretofore the rights of the individual to acquire property without limit has been unchallenged. The purpose of government has been, largely, to protect the individual in this unlimited opportunity to acquire unlimited property. And when the people of any race, or under any form of government, have amassed vast amounts of property, their influence has always become potent in government. They have bent government to their purposes, which generally have been to gain the protected privilege to pile up more property.

The revolutionary change now going on in society is fundamental. It is inspired by the growing conviction that no man has a right to multiply his possessions at the expense of the actual needs and fair opportunity of his neighbor. The change toward which society is working is designed to regulate property which is needed for the public convenience and abolish forms of property that oppress and destroy the moral and material welfare of the people.—Stockton Record.

HIS ANCESTORS

He was always boasting about his ancestors and one day employed a genealogist to hunt them up.

"So you have succeeded in tracing back my ancestors? What is your fee?"

"Two hundred dollars."

"Isn't that high," objected the patron. "What's it for?"

"Principally," responded the genealogist, "for keeping quiet about them."

SNAPSHOTS OF WHAT'S DOING AT EXPOSITION

Imitations of Three of the Most Famous and Beautiful Marbles Used for Generations Creates New Interest in Exposition.

Imitations of three of the most famous and beautiful Italian marbles used for generations in attaining decorative effects and representing the acme of human ingenuity in perfecting artificial stone will be seen at the Panama-Pacific International Exposition in 1915.

The marbles which are now being imitated to add to the distinctiveness and beauty of the Exposition decorative scheme are Travertine—which will form the exterior finishing of Exposition buildings—Sienna, and what is known as Verde Antique.

Travertine marble is found in the bed and along the shores of the River Tiber and is believed to be of a volcanic origin. Its imitation has been perfected by Paul E. Deniville, an expert in the imitation of various stones. The shade of the marble, an old ivory, is the key color of the Exposition.

Construction of a decorative parapet along the shoreline of the Esplanade of Marina, the beautiful promenade skirting the water's edge at the Exposition grounds has begun. The parapet will serve the double purpose of a bulkhead and a decorative feature. It will be 3000 feet long and 3 feet high, and will be ornamented with pedestals and brightly illuminated. The timbers of the structure, which will cost $6000, will be made to resemble Travertine marble.

The New Jersey pavilion will be in the shape of a letter "H," with a frontage of 215 feet and a width of 197 feet. The southern court will be decorated with a flower garden and a liberty pole. In the northern court will be a relief map, illustrating the canal system of New Jersey.

The gate-keepers at the Exposition are in a quandary over the possibility of an aerial turnstile. Aviators flying across San Francisco Bay enter the grounds at will.

The erection of the New York State pavilion at the grounds is progressing. It is expected that all of the carpenter work will be completed in two months.

Silk Worms Will Be Shown

How the silk worm spins its cocoon and the American manufacturer weaves this thread into fabric which is afterward molded into gowns for American women, will be fully shown in an exhibit in the Palace of Manufactures and the finished product will be worn by scores of beautiful models on a promenade in the Palace.

The entire exhibit will be made up of the various industries in the manufacture of the finished product but will be confined so that to the public it will appear as one exhibit arranged in sequential order.

First will be shown the worms in their cases actually spinning the cocoons and then the method of killing them so that they will not break a strand. In the next booth workers will catch up the filaments of the cocoon on a fine brush and wind them through an eyelet into reels of continuous thread from 800 to 1600 yards in length.

These skeins will then be passed along to the next booth in which the weavers make the silk fabric and the cloth will be shown in its various stages of development. The finished product will be given to a department of America's most famous modistes who will measure, cut and fit it upon young women in full sight of the public.

At the end of the exhibit will be a long promenade, the floor of which will be covered with expensive carpets and the walls of tapestry with hangings of rare velvet. This will unquestionably be one of the most attractive exhibits at the Exposition.

Rapid progress is being made in the construction of the interior courts of the main group of exhibit palaces at the Exposition. Pile foundations now are being laid for the Court of the Universe, the central court of the Exposition. Foundations also are being laid for the Tower of Jewels, which will mark the southern approach to the main court. The Court of the Four Seasons, west of the central court, now is well under way and work has begun on the Court of Palms and the Court of Flowers, two of the smaller courts of the main group. 5,000,000 feet of lumber from Aberdeen has been brought to the Exposition dock for use in constructing these courts.

Beds of blossoming daffodils, tulips, anemones and crocuses in the Exposition nurseries now mark the successful completion of a series of interesting experiments to determine whether flowers can be made to bloom in time for the opening of the Exposition on Feb. 20, 1915.

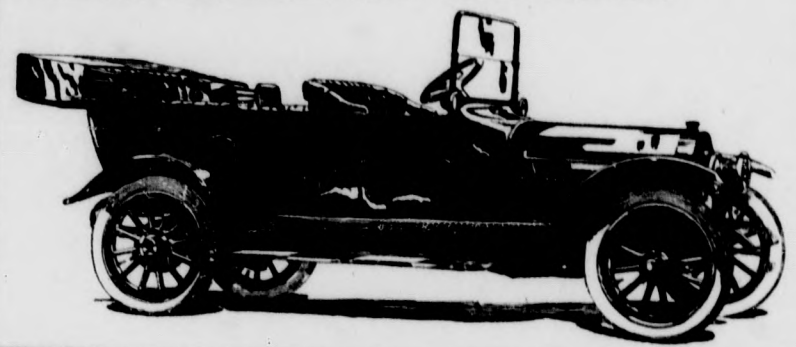

These flowers were included in the first seasonal planting planned to give the Exposition flower beds which are to contain blooming flowers during the entire Exposition period. It was found that the flowers would have to be planted before the usual time in order to have them bloom in time for the opening. Landscape engineers planted a hundred each at the necessary time with the satisfying result that all were blooming on Feb. 20 of this year.

Experiments are being made at the grounds to determine the extent to which it will be advisable to use fireless fireworks, giving imitations of waterfalls in the daytime by gold and silver showers.

Seated within the bodies of huge moths, flies and other insects, visitors to the Exposition may enjoy the novel sensation of flying about a gigantic candle 110 feet in height.

SANTA CLARA COUNTY HAS ARRANGED FOR BONDS.

The Supervisors of Santa Clara County have passed a resolution authorizing the purchase of $375,000 of bonds to cover the remaining cost of State Highway construction in that County. This construction will include an important gap in the main highway between the two 1913 exposition cities, and a new road on the beautiful tour through the Santa Cruz mountains, where heavy grades are to be reduced to 7 per cent or less. The tour around the southern part of San Francisco Bay between San Jose and Santa Clara will be improved by paved highways. "Every effort will be made by the Highway Commission to meet this co-operation of the Santa Clara County Supervisors by completion of the work prior to the exposition openings," says Charles D. Blaney, chairman of the Commission. "This action is the best refutation of the unscrupulous statements made recently that the State Highway in Santa Clara County is 'crumbling'."

The Buick

A Buick automobile must be so built that it will, at all times and under all circumstances, give the owner uninterrupted use of his investment. Every Buick owner is entitled to, and will receive, prompt and efficient service, the kind that will insure him the motoring pleasure he expects.

Buick reputation, so pre-eminently firm and fair, was not won by chance, but is due to the policy established with the production of the first Buick car and so consistently adhered to since, that of giving the owner the maximum of service for the minimum of cost. No matter what its price, a Buick car must, and will, give the maximum of that service for which it was intended, and must bear its proportion of the responsibility of maintaining that high prestige which Buick cars have attained. The true significance of the slogan, "When Better Automobiles Are Built, Buick Will Build Them," is manifested to its fullest possible extent in the 1914 line.

The Buick for Nineteen Fourteen

A Series of Six Models Embracing Both Four and Six Cylinder Types

Buick motor cars for 1914 are still being built around the famous Overhead Valve Motor; differing somewhat in appearance from the handsome models of 1913, but identical in performance with the Buicks of the past. Changes have been few—but refinements have been made and details added for greater beauty and convenience, including the handier left-side drive and the simpler center-control. But the fundamentals of Buick construction are unchanged—unchangeable. In addition—the Deleo System of Electric self-energizing and lighting is built into every motor as an integral part and is included without additional cost. A year ago, when untried, unproved self-starters were being bolted onto many an excellent car in any available place—a source of bitter disappointment in thousands of cases—the Buick management took a firm stand. It announced that no self-starter would be incorporated in any Buick car until a starter had been found as good as the Buick car itself. Such a starter is the Deleo, and the Deleo installation is something you may rely upon as a fulfillment of the Buick ideals, which means "uninterrupted use of his investment" to every Buick owner.

All this at a cost which makes the self-starting, automatically-lighted Buick of 1914 the greatest motor car value offered this season. There is a reason for this super-value: Buick cars are built complete in the Buick plant, in such numbers that literally hundreds of economies are effected in the necessary operations of casting, forging, machining, testing, assembling, etc.; and when completed, Buick cars are trustworthy and reliable, for every operation is Buick's own and nothing is left to chance or outsiders.

Models B24 and B25

Two favorite models, the most popular cars of their class ever produced—familiar sights on every thoroughfare in the world. They are unchanged in the essentials—refined here and there—housing the wonderful motor that has been the backbone of Buick success. The Roadster (B24) is the busy man's car par excellence; handsome in design, amply powered, easy riding, roomy. The touring car (B25) is, of its economical class, the ideal family vehicle—capacious, well upholstered, graceful in line and with a notable excellence of equipment and trimming.

In both B24 and B 25 the Deleo System of lighting, starting and ignition is installed, at no additional cost, for it is part of their regular equipment.

Club Notes—

A review of "Books of Today," by Mrs. George T. Barr of Ontario, was greatly enjoyed by the Woman's Club members and some visitors at the regular meeting on Friday of last week.

Mrs. Barr said that people nowadays seemed to prefer to "eat snails" a la Robert Chambers than to enjoy the heroine of the past who was always "dissolving in tears," although the fiction of the past was always clean and sweet. If a mother is doubtful of the book her daughter reads, ask her to read it herself and if it is not what it should be the daughter's voice will soon falter. The Oliver Optic, Alger and Elsie books have been taken out of the Los Angeles library, as they are too far-fetched. Books on travel recommended were George Putnam's "Travel in Central America," one on South America by Hallie; "Three Weeks in France," and a splendidly descriptive one on Panama by Harry Frank, a Panama policeman. The story of "All the Days of My Life," by Amelia Rives, and the life of Clara Louise Kellogg are well worth reading. Books on social science recommended, "One Way Out," and "New and Old." A good book for mothers to read is "Starting in Life." To bring one in touch with nature take "The Days of Old," "Rose Dawn," "Gray Dawn," "The Friendly Road," and Broadford Torrey's "Birds." The speaker said of the old books that the Los Angeles library had just added forty copies of "Little Women," "Helen Over the Wall," "Pussy Black Face," and the books for girls by Anna Chapin were good books to read to children. "Camp Bred" for camp fire girls, "Martha by the Day," "Inside the Cup," and "West Ways," by Weir Mitchell were all good books to read.

Mrs. Barr's paper was preceded by a piano solo by Miss Grace Persons. A business meeting opened the afternoon, when a report of the reception, April 10, at the Club rooms at 8 o'clock, was given and tickets were distributed. Tickets for the library benefit were also distributed.

among the members, to be sold. A report from the "box social" given by the Club, adds $14 to the Club treasury.

The dates of the Club play have been changed to May 7, because of the number of affairs for April. The next practice will be Monday, the 13th, 2:30, at the Club rooms. It was decided to include "History and Landmarks" in next year's program. Attention was called by the president to the Grammar School and High School election, April 13, and to the Club election April 19, advising all club members to get out and vote. The social hour was in charge of Mrs. Charles Allen and Mrs. S. S. Sampson, who served tea and cakes.

Miss Burkholder Entertains—

Miss Adeline Burkholder entertained Monday evening with a 6 o'clock dinner in honor of Miss Effie Kern, Miss Mamie Witter and Miss Barbara Hitz.

The dining room was prettily decorated in red roses and ferns, while the other rooms were pretty in white roses and ferns.

Miss Kern and Miss Witter left for Abilene, Kans., while Miss Hitz left for Elizabethtown, Pa. The entire party went to the depot to see their friends depart on the 9:47 train, and they were given a hearty farewell. GIRL HURT WHEN

AUTO STRIKES RIG

Lights of Electrically Equipped Machine Blinded Driver and Results in Collision in Which Young Lady is Injured.

As the result of a collision last Thursday night, Miss Mary Studebaker is confined to her father's home at Dessau and Campus Avenue, Ontario, severely hurt. Besides external bruises and cuts, internal injuries are feared.

The machine which ran into the buggy in which Miss Studebaker was riding accompanied by Warren Wynmore, was driven by Harry F. Burbank of Elwood.

With Burbank were Miss Eleanor Albert of Alta Loma and Dr. H. P. Swain of Upland, and his fiancée, Miss Margaret Albert, also of Alta Loma.

The party of four had been to Pomona and were returning on West A Street at shortly after ten. As they neared San Antonio Avenue, an electrically-equipped machine approached, coming from Ontario.

The brilliant lights of the larger machine blinded Burbank and he slowed down and swerved to the right. As the big machine flashed by and its blinding lights faded, Burbank suddenly saw the buggy looming up immediately before him.

He applied the brakes but the momentum of his auto was too great and he crashed into the rear end of the rig. He turned his wheel thus avoiding hitting the buggy full force, but the side-swipe of the steel and iron machine proved sufficient to completely demolish the wooden horse-drawn vehicle.

Worried Over Girl's Condition—

Miss Studebaker and Wynmore were thrown onto the hard pavement. Burbank and Swain ran back to the scene of the wreck and carried the injured girl into the residence of Dr. E. P. Smart, before which the accident occurred. They then took the girl home where she is being treated by Dr. Smart.

Burbank and Miss Eleanor Albert were slightly cut by flying glass when the force of the crash smashed the windshield on the auto. The lamps, fender and radiator of the machine also suffered. There was a lamp on the rig but it was not lit, they declare. The buggy had stopped when the brilliantly-lighted auto came from the east and this made the force of the crash greater. Dr. Smart stated that he believed the girl would recover.

PUNISH THE NON-VOTER

A man who will not vote is unfit to live among a self-governing people, says the Omaha World-Herald. He has no right to claim any of the benefits of government. A bill has been introduced in the New York Legislature to fine heavily every man who does not vote unless excused by some court. A much more effectual law would be one that would deny the benefits of government to such men. If there were laws providing that no man could sue or be sued or bring any action at law until he showed that he had registered and voted, that would settle the matter.

THINGS TO BE REMEMBERED IN FIGHTING THE FLY.

Keep the flies away from the sick, especially those ill with contagious disease. Kill every fly that strays into the sickroom. His body is covered with disease germs. Do not allow decaying material of any sort to accumulate on or near your premises.

All refuse which tends in any way to fermentation, such as bedding, straw, paper waste and vegetable matter, should be disposed of or covered with lime or kerosene oil.

Screen all food, especially milk. Keep all receptacles for garbage carefully covered and the cans cleaned or sprinkled with oil or lime.

See that your sewage system is in good order; that it does not leak, is up to date and not exposed to flies. Pour kerosene oil into drains.

Cover food after a meal.

Screen all food exposed for sale.

Screen all windows and doors, especially the kitchen and dining room.

Burn pyrethrum powder in the house to kill flies.

Don't forget if you see flies their breeding place is in nearby filth. It may be behind the door, under the table or in the cuspidor.

If there is no dirt or filth there will be no flies.

If there is a nuisance in the neighborhood inform the health department at once.

IRISH AND HIS LIQUOR

"In some mysterious way," says Seamus MacManus, the Irish writer, "Ireland has not the name of being a hard-drinking nation. This reputation is most undeserved. The Irishman may appear to drink more because when a Scotchman drinks it sinks to his heels and steadies him. When an Englishman takes a drink it goes to his stomach and he sits down in an easy chair, pleased with himself and all the world, and dreams of carrying the blessings of civilization—the Bible and the Bottle—to the heathen in remote corners of the world. But when an Irishman takes a sip of whiskey he thinks himself selfish if he doesn't instantly go out and take the whole street into his confidence."—Chicago Inter-Ocean.

WHAT IS THE LAND WORTH?

Christian Science Monitor: Land values in the United States are conservatively estimated at fifty billion dollars; a little less than half the total private wealth of the country. The value of agricultural lands represents about three-fifths of this sum; the remaining two-fifths covers the value of mines, forests, railway rights of way, water power, and urban business and dwelling sites. The farm lands of the United States are worth thirty billion dollars, exclusive of all improvements. Two-thirds of these lands are owned by their cultivators, who number four million, and whose holdings average $5000 in value. Men of this class are neither very rich, nor very poor. The remaining third of the land is cultivated by tenants. Practically all our agricultural land is in the hands of the middle class. Land is a middle-class investment to the extent of probably four-fifths.

WERE ACCOMMODATING

He was undoubtedly from far beyond the suburbs, and as he was walking along a city street, he stopped in front of the fire-engine house and looked in.

"Have many fires in town?" he asked.

"Yes, we have them pretty often," replied the fireman.

"Ever try to see how quick you can hitch up?"

"Oh, yes."

At that moment an alarm came in. At the first stroke of the gong the men rushed to their posts, the doors of the stalls opened, and within a few seconds men, horses and cart were speeding down the street.

The young man watched the proceedings with admiration. "Well!" he exclaimed when speech returned; "there ain't many towns where they'd go to all that trouble to show a stranger what they can do."—Exchange.

Less Bowel Trouble in Upland

Upland people have found out that a SINGLE DOSE of simple buckthorn bark, glycerine, etc., as compounded in Adler's, the German bowel and stomach remedy, relieves constipation, sour stomach or gas on the stomach INSTANTLY. This simple mixture became famous by curing appendicitis and it draws off a surprising amount of old foul matter from the body. It is wonderful how QUICKLY it helps. Mac the Medicine Man.

JUDGE GAVIN W. CRAIG

Reprint from editorial of Antelope Valley Ledger-Gazette, March 20th, 1914. Charles E. Jones, editor: In his candidacy for the position of Presiding Judge of the District Court of Appeals, Judge Gavin W. Craig of the Superior Court of Los Angeles County, is receiving the support of a large clientele. Among his staunch supporters are the men who appreciate, above all else, the conscientious and fearless administration of the criminal law as exemplified by Judge Craig during his incumbency on the Superior Court bench. The confidence reposed in him to fulfill, impartially the obligations of his high office, has not been betrayed, as his record and his achievements bear witness. Fidelity to this trust and his many qualifications, as well as his personal attributes, should enlist a following strong enough for his adherents to elect Judge Craig to the office to which he aspires and thus help to maintain the high standard of the bench in Southern California. The Ledger-Gazette will be proud to be included in the ranks of those who are promoting the laudable ambitions of Judge Craig whose legal attainments so eminently fit him for the high office which this friends seek to have him occupy.

$16,000 STREET BONDS VOTED BY CLAREMONT.

The construction of the last remaining link in the State Highway over Foothill Boulevard from Los Angeles to San Bernardino was assured Saturday as a result of the $16,000 street improvement bond election in Claremont, which carried by a vote of 293 to 64. Ten thousand of the amount will go to construct Foothill Boulevard through Claremont. The victory of the bonds followed a fight in which three city trustees and all of the city officials opposed the proposition, while the Board of Trade championed the cause.

LEADER OF UPLAND'S BAND HONORED BY SAN DIEGO MEN

East to Learn of California as Never Before

Leader of Upland's Famous Municipal Band Honored with Invitation to Join Band of National Reputation.

Fred Wilding, leader of Upland's famous band, has just received an invitation to join with the Shrine Temples of California in their advertising trip through the East.

Owing to the fact that the San Diego Shrine band is short a cornetist, Mr. Wilding has been offered the opportunity, although all of the members of the band are opposed to be strictly Shrine men. The fact that one of the San Diego men was unable to go has given Mr. Wilding the chance. He is considering the offer but at present cannot see his way clear to make the trip, as the Upland band is preparing for the summer concerts, and he has other business interests which necessitate his being here.

Of the trip the San Diego Sun has the following to say:

The greatest booster trip in history! This is the way the Shriner pilgrimage from California to Atlanta, in May, has been termed.

Never before has a State been advertised as these Shriners will advertise California from Atlantic to the Pacific. Thousands of dollars will be spent to take California products, California literature and California joy right up to the doorsteps of the Easterners.

Four palatial special trains will carry the Shriners over fourteen railroads to Atlanta. Every principal city en route will be visited. Everywhere the Shriners will tell of California, of the Panama-Pacific Exposition in San Francisco and the Panama-California Exposition in San Diego.

Shrine Bands, Too
Shrine bands will play California music. Shrine singers will render California songs. Shrine orators will tell of the glories of the Golden West.

It will be boost, boost, boost from start to finish, and the California Shriners expect to take Atlanta by storm when they land there May 11 for the annual convocation.

This schedule, back East folks, tells you when the Shriners will reach your city. It is subject to change, of course, but gives an idea that is practically correct of the itinerary of the special trains:

Al Bahr Temple, San Diego: Leave San Diego, Santa Fe, April 30. Stops at Los Angeles, Ash Fork, Albuquerque and Topeka, arriving at Kansas City May 3. Over the Wabash road to St. Louis.

Los Angeles Special
Al Malikah Temple, Los Angeles. Leave Los Angeles April 30, going over the Salt Lake road to Salt Lake City. Thence over the Union Pacific with stops at Omaha; from Omaha to Kansas City, arriving on May 3.

Islam Temple, San Francisco. Leave San Francisco on the Southern Pacific, stopping at Oaden, Rawlins and Denver. From Denver over the Rock Island, stopping at St. Joseph and Kansas City, arriving May 3.

Aahmes Temple, Oakland. Leave Oakland over the Western Pacific to Salt Lake City, thence to Pueblo, Salinas and Kansas City.

Go in a Body
The four special trains bearing the Shriners from San Diego, Oakland, San Francisco and Los Angeles will reach Kansas City at the same time, 4 o'clock on the afternoon of Sunday, May 3.

From Kansas City the four divisions will unite and go on for the rest of the tour in a single division. The united organizations will leave Kansas City at midnight of May 3. The train will arrive in St. Louis at 9:45 a. m. on Monday, May 4, at 11:45 a. m. May 4, and will be in Chicago May 5. They will arrive at Detroit at 3 p. m. on Tuesday, May 5. At midnight of May 5 the Shriners will bid farewell to Detroit. The train arrives at Niagara Falls at 7 a. m., Wednesday, May 6, and arriving in Buffalo, N. Y., at noon the same day. The train leaves Buffalo at midnight, May 6, and arrives at Rochester at 8 a. m., Thursday, May 7, leaving Rochester at 11 p. m. of the seventh.

The party will arrive in New York at 8 a. m., Friday, May 8, and leave at midnight the same night. Arriving at Washington at 8 a. m., Saturday, May 9, the train will leave the capital city at 3 p. m. of the ninth.

Stop at Richmond

A stop will be made at Richmond on the way to Atlanta.

The train will arrive in Atlanta May 10 and will stay in this city for the annual imperial council of the Shriners May 10, 11 and 12.

The Islam Temple of San Francisco will probably return to California with the Al Bahr Temple of San Diego, while the second division on the return trip will be made up of Shriners from Oakland and Los Angeles.

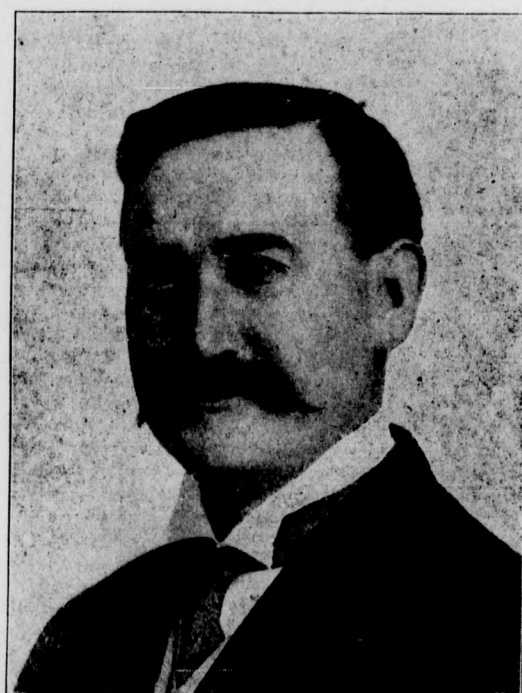

On the trip back, stops will be made at Birmingham, Ala.; Jacksonville, Fla.; New Orleans, La.; Houston, San Antonio and El Paso, Tex., and Tucson, Ariz.

SEWING HUMAN HEARTS IN OUR MODERN SURGERY

The Road to the Heart is Only Two or Three Inches, but It has Taken Surgery 2600 Years to Traverse It.

Probably the most daring chapter in modern surgery is that which treats of operations on the heart. "The road to the heart is only two or three inches long, but it has taken surgery nearly 2600 years to traverse it," is one writer's striking remark. How recent this work is made plain from the fact that a book, published by Stephen Paget in 1895, contained a chapter on "Surgery of the Heart"—the words being contemptuously inclosed in quotation marks. The scientist, as well as the layman, looked upon the heart with an almost superstitious awe. Any injury necessarily implied death; any interference with such an injury could only hasten the end. Yet many shrewd observers in the course of the ages had noted that all heart wounds did not result in instantaneous death.

It was not until ten or fifteen years ago that surgeons began to act upon this knowledge. In exceptional cases death did not result immediately from a heart wound; there were intervals of a few minutes, a few days, or a few weeks. Why not utilize this interval in an attempt to sew up the wound? Medical history now reports many successful operations of this kind.

An especially noteworthy one, performed upon an Alabama negro boy in 1902, illustrates the resources of modern heart surgery. This boy had been the victim of an especially nasty stab wound. The knife had penetrated the apex of the heart and passed into the left ventricle, making a wound nearly half an inch long. When the boy was placed on the operating table, in a little negro cabin, the signs of death had already appeared. His feet were cold and his face showed signs of the utmost distress—World's Work

VALUE OF TEMPTATION

Philadelphia Ledger: No man knows how good or how bad he is until he is sorely tried. It is the fire that develops the beauty. The gun, the bridge, the ship—these are all put to the test, not otherwise is it with man. Temptation lends strength to the soul that resists and takes power from the soul that yields. Every time we gain a victory we add to the sum total of our manhood. Character comes by temptation. It is the secret of virtue. Temptation takes innocence and turns it into virtue. Virtue is innocence under fire.

Each man has his own life to live and his own evils to fight. One may have one devil, one besetting sin, another man ten times one. St. Michael and the dragon is more than a perfect piece of satuary. It is a universal experience, and no man ever gets good enough to escape temptation. If he is worth while, and amounts to anything, he will find himself environed with deadly enemies. Not a grape grows in the sun, not an orange grows golden on the tree, but has its peculiar dangers which lurk in secret. By forces, human and divine, it is possible for each individual to be the master of himself, which is the ruler of his own world.

which members of the committee insisted on immediate action, it may be doubted whether many members sympathized with the plan. But it was urged so strongly by Messrs. King and Bledsoe that a motion in favor of the bond issue was immediately prevailed, asking the Board of Supervisors to delegate County Surveyor Bright, calling upon the Board of Supervisors subsequently, asked that County Engineer Hinkley of Redlands be employed to assist Mr. Bright. The committee to look after this consists of Lyman M. King, Judge B. F. Bledsoe, A. M. Ham, Judge L. V. Root and J. C. Boyd.

More Roads Wanted

The immediate effect of the decision to have this survey made was a request for five additional roads—Loma Linda, the Cottonwood Row roads; Colton asked for Rancho Avenue north, Rialto asked for Riverside Avenue to the south County line, while Chino put in a request for another road in that district.

Getting Into Action

When the committee convened, with Judge Oster in the chair, Lyman M. King was made secretary. A preliminary talk followed, in which it became evident that every community in the County represented there wanted immediate action, with the exception of Redlands. While Judge Bledsoe counseled to "make haste slowly," other San Bernardino representatives were for all speed possible, to the end that the bond election may again be submitted before summer.

"We ought also to consider whether a bond issue for a County hospital and detention home should be included," said Judge Bledsoe. "There are those who think this would strengthen the highway bond issue, and we all know the hospital is needed."

"If I were to talk for a month with people in Colton, I am sure from what I know now that the majority would increase calling for immediate resubmission of the bond issue," said F. H. Owen of that city. J. W. Bandy declared that the Chino people were overwhelmingly for the original bond issue, "and they are just as overwhelmingly in favor of calling another election on the original system of roads," said Bandy.

F. A. Fletcher brought the same word from Victor, and urged immediate action.

"Highland has already demonstrated its attitude in starting this second movement," said W. M. Bristol. "Of course, it favors a road bond election. It is also in favor of a new hospital. But our people in Highland would prefer to have the highway bond issue by itself, and perhaps hold the hospital bond election at the time of the primary."

"Cucamonga is in favor of another bond election as soon as possible," reported F. A. Lucas, "but it doubts the advisability of now tying up the Supervisors as to the personnel of the commission, or of tying up the commission as to the system of roads. Those questions are settled as they come up. We favor calling an election at once."

One of the surprising statements was that made by J. H. Strait of Redlands, who stated that in the former election that "the people who fought the bond issue hardest were not affected by the orange situation." This by way of reply to the suggestion that orange conditions are responsible for the vote there.

"I voted yes on the bonds as the roads were outlined," continued Mr. Strait, "and I presume I would do so again. But the majority in Redlands would not do so. Some of them were in opposition because of roads that were included, which they thought Redlands should have and did not get." Mr. Strait did not say so directly, but it was evident from his statement that he thinks if the Loma Linda road and Cottonwood Row are included in another system the vote might be more favorable in Redlands.

R. W. Cave, also of Redlands, stated that "two additional roads would add to the strength of a bond issue in Redlands," although he particularly emphasized the point that the bond issue must not be increased, and intimated that he thought it rather large as it was before.

Lyman M. King urged much consideration and took up the line of argument advanced by Judge Bledsoe. Mr. King also proposed the appointment of a commission of engineers, specifying County Surveyor Bright and some other engineer, to go over the roads, survey them, measure the work to be done, estimate the cost and practically report complete specifications, and declared that if this were done, the Redlands vote would be much more favorable.

A number of the speakers had referred to the possible elimination of West Highland Avenue, and it remained for Glenn D. Smith of Ontario to say quite directly that he thought the western part of the County would much oppose anything of the kind. In this he was supported by M. F. Palmer of Upland, Isaac Jones of Ontario and Judge Kelly of Alta Loma.

"Tell us why Upland voted as she did?" queried Judge Oster of Mr. Palmer.

"Upland did not get much out of the bond issue, and she had a good deal without it," replied Mr. Palmer, alluding to the fact that the State Highway already leads in about all directions from Upland except north. "A case of being too well satisfied," commented Judge Oster. "Alta Loma would be very vitally interested in any suggestion of eliminating Highland Avenue," observed Judge Kelly of that district. "This whole question, in Redlands and elsewhere, reduces itself to a decision as to whether we can give each community what she wants. You may tell me that Redlands voted against this bond issue because of Highland Avenue or E Street or some other street that San Bernardino got out of it, but my opinion is that Redlands voted adversely because of some roads that Redlands did not get."

"In my judgment, we would be unwise to go into this campaign by taking away any road that had been conceded heretofore. What we must do if we can is to give other roads that are demanded, and in that way we may get headed for a successful campaign."

Would Give and Take

"I thought San Bernardino could give three-to-one for the bond issue, and I think so yet if we had got the vote out, for the check of the precincts showed. But we cannot give three to one or two to one, if you take elimination of some of our roads," declared J. J. Hanford. "We are willing to concede roads to other districts. We are willing to give and take. But we do not want to do all the giving and have some place else do all the taking."

"Of course, you know we favor an immediate election. The sooner the better for us and a bigger majority than before."

The upshot of the discussion, occupied the entire afternoon, was the appointment of the two committees, one of which promises to have petitions out for signatures immediately.

HAS HE COME OR IS HE TO MAKE APPEARANCE

Is the Typical American Already Here or is He to come at a Later Date. Learned Men Discuss Important Topic.

From an address on "The New South," delivered by Henry W. Grady, Dec. 22, 1886, at the eighty-first anniversary celebration of the New England Society in the city of New York: My friend, Dr. Talmage, has told you that the typical American has yet to come. Let me tell you that he has already come. Great types, like valuable plants, are slow to flower and fruit. But from the union of these colonist Puritans and Cavaliers, from the straightening of their purposes and the crossing of their blood, slow perfecting through a century, came he who stands as the first typical American, the first who comprehended within himself all the strength and gentleness, all the majesty and grace of this Republic—Abraham Lincoln. He was the sum of Puritan and Cavalier, for in his ardent nature were fused the virtues of both, and in the depths of his great soul the faults of both were lost. He was greater than Puritan, greater than Cavalier, in that he was American, and that in his homely form were first gathered the vast and thrilling forces of his ideal government—charging it with such tremendous meaning and so elevating it above human suffering that martyrdom, though infinitely aimed, came as a fitting crown to a life consecrated from the cradle to human liberty. Let us, each cherishing the traditions and honoring his fathers, build with reverent hands to the type of this simple but sublime life, in which all types are honored; and in our common glory as Americans there will be plenty and to spare for your forefathers and for mine.

The question of new County bonds was then taken up in some detail. Mr. Palmer, Upland's representative on the County committee, was called upon and made his report. He told of the plans for a new bond campaign, and emphasized the value of good roads as actual economy. He advised the spending of money where such spending would actually save more money. He urged that it is always necessary to build for the future—something that will stand, and cited the instance of the public school building, which seemed big at the time of construction, but we now know it is just what we needed. He asked for an expression of opinion from the members present, and a general discussion followed.

The idea was generally expressed that Upland's vote was light on the recent bond issue because they did not get enough roads. Mr. Rohrig, Mr. Hanson and Mr. Nesbitt were among the speakers who asked why we should not get more. Mr. Nesbitt said, "we want good roads. I want you to understand that we are in favor of good roads in our County. We are not jealous of San Bernardino or any other district, but we want our share. We want some good roads HERE. Give us our fair proportion and we will endorse the bonds." A round of applause greeted Mr. Nesbitt's speech. A motion followed to the effect that the meeting endorse good roads and a new bond issue, provided certain further stretches of roads around Upland could be included, so as to give a fair proportionate mileage to this city. The motion was carried and the meeting was then adjourned.

ADVERTISING PROVES A SERVANT OF THE TRUTH

Not Only a Servant of Truth But Later Day Methods Prove It a Thing of Beauty as Well as of Art. Its Advancement.

Although historians no longer dispute over the value of newspaper files as "sources" usually discussion of this phase of journalism does not include the advertising columns. Still, in a broad view of the matter, it should include them. For economic and social evolution gets full record in the portrayal of contemporary business which the advertisement professes. Gladstone understood this when he insisted on reading American editions of American magazines. He said that he learned more about the evolution of America from the advertising pages than he could from the text of articles in the body of the periodical, says the Christian Science Monitor.

All the subtler as well as broader effects of altering standards of living, all the wizardry of invention as applied to implements of advancing civilization, all the transformations in clothing, furniture, habitations, sports and literature, are set forth in advertisements, and these remain as data for the social historian so long as the paper on which they are printed endures. Professor Salmon of Vassar College, in a recent talk to an audience interested in the technique of advertising, has emphasized the value to her as a student of social change, of the daily newspaper's mediating service between makers, sellers and buyers of goods in advertisements, and these remain as data for the social historian so long as the paper on which they are printed endures.

So much for advertising as a servant of truth. But what of its relation to beauty and art? No one can fail to note in contemporary advertising a great advance over that of a decade ago in concern for those nice details of typography and "dress" which go to make up a plea for a buyer's cash that satisfies both his esthetic standards and his trading appetite. Credit for this is due in part to publishers with ideals, and in part to advertisers with good taste in design at their service.

POETRY

Some of these days some worthy writer is going to write a book on the poetry of every-day business—for there is poetry even in the most obscure tasks. But the thing that makes for poetry to the largest extent is the love that one puts into his work.

If you and your work are harmonious, poetry will take the place of what is so often prosaic.

Another thing that makes for poetry in one's work is enthusiasm. These things take away the harshness from work, smooth its corners and play music to it.

There is every-day poetry everywhere if you will but look for it. If you can't find poetry in your work, or see it in the place or organization where you work, if what you do doesn't measure up to and mesh with what others do about you, then the chances are that you are out of place and that to make your life rhyme with your purpose of existence, you must find your proper place or special niche.

Put smiles and cheer and encouragement and optimism and kind feeling into each of your days and you will be writing poetry in fact—George Matthew Adams.

FACTS WORTH KNOWING

Our custom is to pay our doctors when we are sick, and sometimes not even then. The celestial method, as shown by the example of the Emperor of China, is to pay the doctor only when one is well. As soon as the Emperor is sick it is a notification to his physicians that their salary is cut off till he is perfectly well again. The passionate zeal with which the regulars go to work to get his majesty back where their salaries will begin again is said to be something astounding. The result is that the emperor is about the healthiest man standing on this planet, and his physicians seldom lose a day's salary. How many male and female accusers were required to bring you into the world? First, it was necessary that you should have a father and mother. That makes two human beings. Each of them must have had a father and mother. That makes four more human beings. Again, each of them must have had a father and mother, making eight more human beings. So we go back to the time of Jesus Christ, fifty-six generations. The calculations thus resulting shows that 139,235,017,489,134,976 births must have taken place to bring you into this world—you who read these lines! All this since the birth of Christ—not since the beginning of time.

Bradley's Standard Fertilizer

Method of manufacture means much in the finished Fertilizer Product is made from the same raw material as the most reputable manufacturers use, yet different manufacturers produce finished products radically different in character and desirability from the standpoint of the user. This applies particularly to fertilizer making, the same as it does in the production of any commodity from one or more materials that must be treated properly in order to secure the best results.

Bradley, from an agricultural standpoint is without doubt the greatest fertilizer agent in this country and is the result of 50 years of careful study by the largest individual fertilizer company in America. Our fertilizer is made different, is water soluble and requires very much less moisture to dissolve it than any other, grows better fruit and more of it. Give us a trial.

ACTIVE WOMEN

Miss Gertrude Beeks who did yeoman work in helping to clean up the Panama Canal Zone will receive special honors from the United States government.

Because she insisted, in the editorial columns of her paper, that Cheating needed "a real boss to keep the town from going to the dogs," Miss Blanche D. Ingalls, editor of the Cheating (Mich.) Monitor, has been appointed town marshal. She accepted the position and is getting ready to run the town to suit herself.

Gov. James F. Fielder of New Jersey has appointed his wife, Mrs. Mabel C. Fielder, one of the commissioners for the State Reformatory for Women.

Mrs. L. S. Sheldon, of Lawrence, Kan., has announced herself as a candidate for Associate Justice of the Supreme Court. She has practiced law in Topeka and Lawrence for twenty years and is the first woman to seek a place on the bench in Kansas. She is a candidate on a non-partisan ticket.

Miss Sarah Purser of Dublin was last week appointed guardian of the National Gallery of Ireland by the Earl of Aberdeen. The position is considered one of the most important in the art world. This is the first time a woman has been so honored.

Mrs. Anna R. Vogel of Detroit is the champion woman live-bird shot of the world.

THOSE BAMBOO CURTAINS

A young woman from a northern city who is of a decidedly artistic temperament visited New Orleans not long since.

"I observed such a decorative idea on this street," she said to a friend, with whom she was stopping for awhile. "It was a house hug as all the second and third story windows with pale bamboo curtains. While they were perfectly plain and all of the same shade, the effect was most artistic. Such taste! I'm sure that the house must be the home of a colony of artists."

The friend smiled broadly. "It isn't the home of a colony of artists," said she, "but a spaghetti family. It wasn't bamboo you saw, but spaghetti. They hang the stuff out to dry."

AFRAID OF LAWYERS

An old colored man, charged with stealing chickens, was arraigned in court and was incriminating himself when the judge said: "You ought to have a lawyer. Where's your lawyer?"

"Ah, ain't got no lawyer, judge," said the old man.

"Very well, then," said his honor, "I'll assign a lawyer to defend you."

"Oh, no, suh; no, suh! Please don't do dat!" the darkey begged.

"Why not?" asked the judge. "It won't cost you anything. Why don't you want a lawyer?"

"Well, yedge, Ah'll tell you, suh," said the old man, waving his tattered hat and confidentially. "It's jest dis way—Ah w'd 'tuh enjoy dem chicken mahse!"—Pittsburg Chronicle-Telegraph.

THE MAGIC OF THE SEA

The banality of a certain sea poem, reports the New York Tribune, led a rival poet to say: "This poem of the sea reminds me of a young woman from Illinois who saw the Atlantic for the first time last week at Cape May."

"As she stood on the windy beach, gazing dreamily out over the vast blue expanse of tumbling water, I said to her:

"So this is the first time you've ever seen the sea, eh?"

"Yes, the very first time," she answered.

"And what do you think of it?" I asked.

"Ah, she said, with an ecstatic smile, 'It smells just like oysters!'"

A SCHOOL SAVINGS BANK

School savings bank experiments being made in Boston are highly successful. The president, treasurer, tellers, bookkeepers and messengers are all seventh grade pupils.

The twenty-two pupils employed in the bank perform exactly the same duties as if they were employed in a large bank or trust company.

Witness the success of this school bank in teaching the children to save money, there must be greater advantage to the juvenile employers of the bank in the opportunity to learn a business that should be of great benefit in after life.

The average man knows very little about how a bank is conducted and this technical training sustains the rule that each generation is better than its predecessor.—Stout City Tribune.

JUST SO

A newspaper is a peculiar thing in the public's eye. The news gatherer is stormed at because he gets hold of one item and is abused because he does not get another.

Young men, and often young women, as well as older persons, perform acts which become legitimate items for publication and then rush to the newspaper offices and beg the editor not to notice their escapades.

The next day they condemn the same paper for not having published another party doing the same thing; they were guilty of forgetting apparently their late visit to the printing office.—Sutter Independent.

Another Georgia town recently voted in favor of saloons after a lively campaign in which considerable feeling was aroused. Said a citizen in justification of his vote: "If we are going to stand for our women folks wearing shadow skirts and slit skirts and transparent skirts, and our younger women learning to dance the ball waltz waltz, the Texas Tommy Tango, the bunny bag, the bear dance, the half cent, the buzzard flap and the puppy huddle, and so on down the line, then the men folks might just as well have their saloons and the whole push go to hell together."

OPPOSITE POSTOFFICE

ORDINANCE No. 118

An Ordinance Prescribing the Compensation to Be Paid Members of the Board of Trustees for Their Services.

would vote against the granting of licenses.

Councilman Haury stated that he voted for the ordinance, and as long as parents could keep their boys from the pool room, if under the age of twenty-one years, he believed the Council could see to it that those pool rooms were well conducted, and if they were not well conducted he would be one to see to it that the business was closed up immediately.

"Now, gentlemen," said Mayor Lambrieger, "it's simply up to you if you want to remain in the pool room business in this town; conduct your business as it ought to be conducted and you won't have any trouble. There is absolutely no harm in a game of pool, but a pool room has gotten a bad reputation with the people simply because of the fact of its association. Now you have heard what these men have said, and I want to say for myself that as long as you men conduct your business along the right lines, just so long will you have a license; but if anything disorderly goes on you are going to lose your license."

Election on the Thirtieth
A week from next Monday is election day, and last night was the last Council meeting at which J. C. Mehl will be a Councilman, and whether Councilman Haury returns or not is up to the people. There has been some complaint over the combination of voting precincts, but as it saved the city $100 by combining, the Council decided to do so.
